Neighbor Focus: Fred Elsasser

BW resident since 1925

By Helen Koba

In 1924, when Fred Elsasser was four, his parents bought a 45 x 143 ft lot on NE 42nd near Shaver. Fred's uncle Henry bought the adjacent lot. The Elsassers had just arrived to Portland from Saskatchewan, Canada. Fred thinks the lots cost about $200 each. The lumber to build the homes came from a barn that was being disassembled on SE Peacock Lane. The lumber from the barn was old growth timber, and the two Elsasser homes are still on 42nd today.

A year later, the Elsassers moved into their new home. To the east were plant nurseries and Shaver Street did not extend east past 42nd. In 1926, Fred was one of the students of Beaumont School's first class.

William & Fred Elsasser, 1926

He spoke little English, since German was spoken at home. He remembers not knowing how to ask his teacher for permission to go to the restroom, so he just quickly ran home and back to class. He graduated from Grant in 1938 and enrolled at the University of Oregon majoring in journalism. For health reasons, he did not serve in WW II, but his

Business Focus: Beaumont Hardware

The Zellers 'Do it best'

By John M. Carson

Most of us in the neighborhood cannot remember a time when there was NOT a hardware store on Fremont. Beaumont Hardware was started in the 1950's at NE Fremont and 42nd. It moved to its present location at 4303 NE Fremont in the 60's. Other tenants in the building were bought out to make room as the inventory expanded and since it opened, it has had many owners.

Tony and Kim Zeller bought the business in June 2005 from Mike and Connie Eggleston who were getting ready to retire. The Zellers have made every effort to make a smooth transition and have retained many former employees who were knowledgeable about the business. Tony grew up in Portland and is the fifth generation of the family who owned the Zeller Chapel of Roses at NE Broadway at 21st. He met his wife Kim while she was employed at the Zeller funeral home.

Get involved, instigate and create!

In my first message as president of the BWNA one year ago, I wrote about a book and website called Food Not Lawns http://www.foodnotlawns.com/. In the last year I've become even more convinced that it's time for people to rip out their lawns and plant vegetable gardens and fruit trees. I've noticed that there has been movement in that direction in our neighborhood and that's exciting. The sooner we learn to grow and eat our own fruits and vegetables the better off we'll be as we run out of fossil fuel. Recently I saw a lecture on the slow food movement which convinced me further that for my own health and the health of the planet nothing can beat growing and eating my own organic strawberries.

Over the past year in the neighborhood we've had a Friends of Trees tree planting, many new businesses have opened and NE Fremont has seen significant traffic changes. My life has been exciting with a new position, a new love, and now a new home.

I am moving out of the neighborhood in June and therefore will no longer be the president of the BWNA. At the May Board meeting, Bill Markwart agreed to become acting president. There are some interesting projects in the works and great people on the neighborhood association, newsletter team and business association. I encourage more people to get involved or instigate something you'd like to see happen—a book club, farmers market, community dance, movie night, poetry readings, garden club. We have one life to live – by creating community around us we make our lives richer and more exciting.

Keep in touch,
–Albert Kaufman

Bumblekiss

By Alexis Bouchard

Vincent and Lisa of Bumblekiss

Husband and wife Vincent Chavez and Lisa Laing-Chavez have blessed Beaumont Village with a scrumptious dining experience called Bumblekiss. The tiny space (formerly Suzanne's) lies just one block off of NE Fremont on 46th at 3517 NE 46. You can't miss its persimmon and matte black exterior. The restaurant offers a fresh, vibrant and unique dining experience.

Everything is made in-house from scratch and with love. Lisa and Vincent along with chef Clay Card really care about what goes into people's bodies. This means using organic, nutritious, free-range, and veggie-friendly ingredients.

The couple moved to Portland from the Bay area two years ago. Lisa, an artist, and Vincent, an architect, decided to merge their creative energies and the outcome was Bumblekiss. The restaurant has just celebrated its first year and now offers breakfast, lunch and dinner.

Breakfast boasts specials like salmon cakes with poached eggs, and regulars such as cinnamon French toast, tasty scrambles, biscuits and gravy, and dynamite veggie and meat benedicts. Lunch offers a wide selection of soups, salads, 'free-range' burgers, pasta and gourmet sandwiches. Dinner while similar to lunch includes entrees such as grilled flank steak with marsala cream sauce and wild salmon with fresh thyme, capers and lemon butter.

The restaurant offers beer and wine, is kid-friendly, has an outdoor patio, encourages sidewalk art and has a ping pong table. Bumblekiss is open Tuesday through Sunday from 8am until 3pm, and Wednesday through Saturday from 8am until 9pm. ☐ three brothers did. His brother William was one of the first to enter Hiroshima after the bombing.

The Elsasser family attended the Second German Congregational Church located at NE 8th and Skidmore. The congregation moved to its current location on NE 55th at Alberta in the 1950's where Fred worships today.

Neighborhood businesses Fred remembers are a service station at 47th and Fremont, a grocery store where Justin's Market is where Fred worked sacking potatoes, and a drug store where the Alameda Café is now located. As a teenager, Fred also worked at the Beaumont Pharmacy which was located in the Nanwood Honeyman Building, built in 1931 and now called the Dutch Building. In those days, doctors called in prescriptions and pharmacists made the medication by hand. Fred was paid ten cents to deliver prescriptions on his bike. When not delivering, Fred worked the soda fountain. He especially liked to make milkshakes for his girlfriend, Virginia Swearingen.

Fred lives in one of the seven apartments he built in 1965 on the lots behind the two original Elsasser houses. He is blessed with good health and does his own cleaning and cooking. He drives a 1973 Cadillac, "the last model to be made of all metal and it is not for sale!" He is active in the Masons and Shriners. When I asked him why he has lived in this neighborhood for 82 years, he said, "People on the west side are snobby and this has been a perpetually good neighborhood." ☐

Healthy skin is beautiful skin

By Barbara Warren-Sams

"Having beautiful skin is a sign of good health," says Ariel Fauley, owner of Ariel's Advanced Skin Care in Beaumont Village.

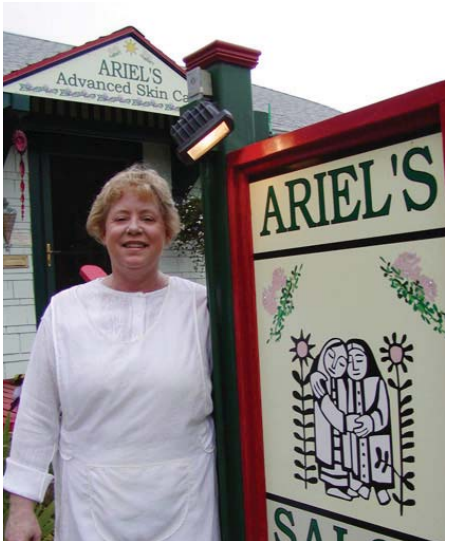

Her salon features Eminence Organics, a product line of masques, toners, serums, and moisturizers that are freshly made and shipped express from Hungary. They are two weeks old, contain 99 percent active ingredients and "are so fresh you can eat them," notes Ariel. For the past four years, Eminence has won first place at the annual International Aesthetics Conference.

Most skin care products on the market today are 68 percent water and only 8-12 percent active ingredients. To keep costs down, they are made in large quantities and stored for a long time. "The brands on the shelves today are usually three to five years old," states Ariel.

Basic skin care services that the salon offers include:

- Microdermabrasion for resurfacing the face, fine lines, and pigmentation, using diamond and sapphire dust
- Micro-Current with French organics for removing old paraffin and plastics with sponges and greens and for tightening facial muscles and improving elasticity (an "electrical fountain of youth")
- European and organic body wraps
- Salt scrubs, micro-current detoxifying foot baths, and massage

In 2001 Ariel started her skin-care business in Sandy, Oregon, after taking botanical studies at Ashmead College in Portland. She moved to her present location in 2004.

Ariel Fauley

"I have always loved botanicals and the use of touch to heal," says Ariel.

Two women join Ariel at the salon: Andrea Johnson, who specializes in deep massage, and Karel Redeker, who is studying with Ariel to be an aesthetician.

Ariel has been involved in healing of all kinds for more than 20 years. She currently works part time as a chaplain for Multnomah County Corrections.

Ariel's is located at 4515 NE Fremont. You can make an appointment for a free consultation by calling 503.281.4760, or speak directly with Ariel by calling 503.381.6937. ☐

Petition to school board

By Averil Paskow

Residents of the Beaumont Wilshire neighborhood north of Skidmore have been circulating a petition to have school district boundaries redrawn. Shannon Berlant, one of the signature gatherers, knows it can be difficult to affect this sort of change, but after researching enrollment patterns and figuring out which schools were closest to her home, she decided to take action.

"All of our assigned schools (Vernon, Tubman and Jefferson) are significantly farther away from our homes than schools in the adjoining district. Alameda, Beaumont and Grant are much closer. I feel like the school district has divided our neighborhood with these boundaries."

The petition highlights these discrepancies and also states that current district boundaries force some children to cross high-traffic streets to get to school bus stops. Residents who support the petition believe that sending their children to the schools closest to their homes will create a greater sense of community and foster a greater connection to their schools, as well as allow children to attend the same schools as their friends who live nearby.

Neighbors have collected over 200 signatures and gathered enrollment data. There is a pattern of declining enrollment which seems directly related to dissatisfaction with schools within the existing boundaries. For more information please email:
